

Medical Career Report

Due _____

Using the information you researched on the other side of this paper, you will write a short paper and do a mini presentation for the class.

Written Paper:

Using your research, you will write a one page paper about the Medical Career you choose. You will need to include the following information:

- Job Description
- Other closely related professions
- Training/Education
- Potential salary
- Negative and positive aspects of the job (at least 5 total)
- Where they are typically employed (clinic, hospital, lab, etc...)

Your paper should include:

- Cover sheet with name, date and the career title (graphic or pic would be nice)
- One page written on the career
  - Typed, 1½ or double spaced, no larger than 13 font OR
  - Hand written legibly (-5 points for every re-write)
- List of resources on a separate piece of paper

Papers are due before the Holiday break.
Presentation will be done after the Holiday break.

Presentation:

You are the head of the human resources department at a major hospital, responsible for hiring new employees. You will present the medical career position that you need to fill for the next month. You must include a job description, education/degree required, starting salary, and the type of personality you are looking for that best suits this position. Your mini-presentation should last 3-5 minutes. Visuals are worth bonus points.

This assignment is worth 100 points (80 for the written paper, 20 for the presentation)

Other closely related professions

Training/Education

Leading/closest school for education in this field

Potential salary

Negative and positive aspects of the job (at least 5 total)

Where they are typically employed (clinic, hospital, lab, etc...)